

Choosing the right doors and garage gates to protect your real estate

In this article I, together with experts, who know everything about real estate in Toronto, will try to understand the culture of the front and garage doors. Front doors, as well as garage doors, can be divided into wooden and metal. Of course wooden doors look much more stylish than the one made of steel, but on the other hand these rolling steel doors protect your property from fire and intruders better.

But regardless of the material, the high quality front door and garage door, should possess the following qualities, to protect your real estate from negative impact:

- Provide a protective function against the force, and this in turn requires the presence of a certain assurance factor.
- The ability to control access (glass, peephole, video surveillance system).
- Sound and heat insulation: the door must be designed in such a way that it will prevent the heat loss from the house and the penetration of noise.
- Resistance to breaking: intelligent design and the presence of the sophisticated lock in it. Finally, the front door and garage door should look good to please the eye of the house owner. It's no wonder there is a saying: "The front door - is the smile of your home."

If you are looking for such a door, you can order at counter shutters manufacturing company. Let's now study the above list in details. The durability of the door is determined by the material from which it was made. This is usually steel, wood and combinations of wood with fiberboard and particleboard. There is no sense to talk a lot about wooden doors. Unfortunately, they do not meet modern safety requirements established for front and garage doors, so let's consider the construction of high quality steel doors:

- The front and back steel sheet. A good steel door must be made from one piece, without welds.
- The door must be put into a jamb - part of the door frame, closing the gap between it and the opening space.
- The thickness of the steel sheet is very important factor that determines your real estate safety.

The next important element of doors - hinges.

One more way to protect your home is to use hidden hinges on the front and garage doors. When choosing doors do not forget the sight glass, bulletproof glass window or a video surveillance system. It is desirable that the front door has two locks. In case you install more locks - it will be uncomfortable and not stylish. As practice shows two reliable lock are enough to ensure the safety of your house or apartment.
